

NEW BOMB SPEEDS UP END OF JAPAN

ALLIES RELAX
CONTROL OVER
REICH PEOPLEFREE POLITICS AND
TRADE UNIONS
PERMITTED

BY EDWARD D. BALL
Berlin, Aug. 6. (P)—The United States and Britain today gave the conquered Germans permission to form free, local trade unions and local political parties, but Gen. Eisenhower warned the German people they would get full freedom only after they proved themselves willing to build democracy. "We shall assist you to rebuild your life on a democratic basis," Eisenhower said in a proclamation to the Germans. The American commander demanded, however, that "there must be no idleness," particularly during and before the coming winter which, he said, would be a hard one.

No Degradation
Eisenhower's proclamation was read in his name over the Berlin radio and transmitters in the American zone.

A similar proclamation was read on behalf of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in the British zone.

The relaxation of control was in accord with the policies for the government of Germany laid down last week by the big three meeting at Potsdam. The ban on political activities had been relaxed in the Russian zone some weeks ago.

Eisenhower said that the plans were being announced since "our de-Nazification program has proceeded sufficiently."

Eisenhower told the Germans that "Our aim is not merely a negative one."

"We do not desire to degrade the German people," he said. "We shall assist you to rebuild your life on a democratic basis. Your courts and schools are being opened as quickly as they can be freed of Nazi influence. Justice and education founded on true liberal principles will be supported vigorously."

Must Gather Wood
Granting the Germans permission to hold meetings to form local unions and local political parties, Eisenhower said that one of the initial aims of these groups "should be to help the measures necessary now to prepare for the coming winter."

Referring to the coming winter months as a "time of trial," Eisenhower told the German people they had in their power to reduce the hardships by helping each other and by steady work.

He urged city populations to go out on to the farms to gather the harvest.

There would be no coal for heating houses, he said, and it therefore was essential that town dwellers gather their own wood from the forests.

"Despite all the hardships," Eisenhower concluded, "you need not face the future without hope. You can redeem yourselves both at home and in the eyes of the world through your own efforts."

Montgomery's proclamation also promised to help the Germans "eradicate idleness, boredom and fear of the future," and substitute "an objective and hope for the future."

SUGAR DEAL CONDEMNED

Detroit, Aug. 6. (P)—The Detroit Consumers Council today Secretary of State Byrnes wrote that the reported plan to send 60,000 tons of sugar to Spain was "outrageous" and "indefensible" and "borders on treason." Charles C. Lockwood, council attorney, said that if such a deal is made, a delegation of Detroit housewives will make a protest march on Washington.

Sen. Hiram W. Johnson
Foe Of United Nations
Charter, Dies In Coma

Washington, Aug. 6. (P)—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, a leader in the senate battle that defeated United States participation in the League of Nations 25 years ago, died today. He was 78.

The silver-haired Californian, a descendant of French nobility and dean of senate Republicans in service, died in a coma at 6:40 a. m., EWT, in the Bethesda, Md., naval hospital.

Capt. Robert E. Duncan, USN, his physician, attributed his death to thrombosis of a cerebral artery. He had been confined to the hospital for two and a half weeks.

Mrs. Johnson was with him when he died and a son, Lt. Col. Hiram W. Johnson, Jr., was en route by plane from San Francisco.

Senator Johnson, Republican governor of California in 1910-1916, was the vice presidential candidate in Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" campaign of 1912.

Alliances Opposed
Ranking minority member of the senate foreign relations committee, Senator Johnson cast the only vote in committee against ratifying the United Nations charter to the senate without reservation or change.

Illness prevented him from being present when the senate cast its final vote for ratification, but again he was recorded against.

Unwavering in his belief that this country should remain aloof from foreign alliances, he was vocal in his 1941 opposition to repeal of the 1939 neutrality act's prohibition against arming of American merchant ships.

Barely a month before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, he told the senate repeal of this provision and permission for the ships to carry war supplies to Britain was tantamount to a declaration of war by the United States.

YANKS MOP UP
LUZON HIDEOUTSPrize Of 45-Day States
Furlough Offered For Live Jap Generals

Manila, Tuesday, Aug. 7. (P)—Undertaken by small scale counterattacks, Yanks closed in an Japanese hideouts on northern Luzon with the prize of a 45-day furlough in the United States for the capture of "any live Japanese general" dangled before them.

The offer came as Gen. Douglas MacArthur yesterday reported 4,740 Japanese dead counted in the past week and 444 prisoners captured, raising the Nipponese losses for the Philippines campaign to 443,012.

Chief target of the bounty is Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, one-time "Tiger of Malaya" and now dubbed the "Gopher of Luzon." Some Filipinos insist Yamashita is still alive and leading the last stand defenders pressed into the rugged mountains north of Baguio.

Japanese beaten back in the counterattack in the area north-west of Kiangnan, only a few miles from Yamashita's last known hideout, took refuge in a well-prepared trench system under protection of mortar and light artillery fire.

Filipino units farther south reported other smaller counterattacks. A Japanese company which had been staging ambushes was wiped out in the Sierra Madre foothills.

A considerable portion of the enemy casualties was attributed to firebombing Mitchells of the 13th Air Force, blazing a flaming pathway for many of the advancing Yank and Filipino units.

American losses for the same week were 27 dead and 61 wounded.

TAX VALUATION

Cuts Down Some Upper Peninsula Counties

Lansing, Aug. 6. (P)—The state tax commission today recommended to the state board of equalization an increase of nearly $100,000,000 in the equalized value of Michigan counties. The total was fixed at $7,529,550,000, compared with $7,430,725,000.

The recommendations will become final three weeks hence unless changed as the result of protests to be heard in the interim.

The increased total was divided equally between Wayne and Oakland counties, with minor adjustments in some of the other counties.

Louis M. Nams, tax commission chairman, said the equalized valuation of a number of Upper Peninsula counties was reduced because of lowered mining valuations.

The increases recommended over a year ago included: Dickinson, $1,000,000 to $25,000,000; Schoolcraft, $200,000 to $6,400,000.

CHINESE OPEN
COASTAL AREA
FOR INVASIONPORT OF YEUNGKONG
ENTERED; KWEILIN
SACKED BY JAPS

BY SPENCER MOOSA
Chungking, Aug. 6. (P)—Chinese troops have broken into the south China port of Yeungkong and cleared a 50-mile stretch of the Chinese "invasion coast" west of Hong Kong, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters said today.

Swaying block-by-block street fighting is raging in the strategic coastal highway town, 121 miles southwest of Canton, a commune said.

By breaking into Yeungkong, Chinese forces won control of a 50-mile coastal stretch leading west to Tinipak, which lies east of the great Luichow peninsula that dips into the south China Sea. The coastal area now is open to a virtually unopposed landing.

Big Trap Formed
West of the Luichow peninsula, another 145-mile coastal stretch extending to the Indo-China frontier is under Chinese control and observers believed the Chinese soon might launch a concerted drive from the west and east that would seal off the Japanese on the Luichow peninsula and on Hainan Island to the south.

Three hundred and seventy miles north of Hong Kong, the Chinese high command admitted further progress by a Japanese force, originally estimated at 20,000 troops, which has been withdrawing northward toward the enemy bastion of Nanchang, 160 miles southeast of Hankow.

A war bulletin said the Japanese were advancing up both the east and west banks of the Kan River. American fighter planes struck into the area west of the Kiangsi battlefield and destroyed or damaged 27 Japanese sampans on the Siang River near Changsha, a U. S. communique said.

New word of Japanese barbarism meanwhile reached Chungking on the heels of official reports that 50,000 civilians were killed or missing in the Kanhsien area, 240 miles north of Hong Kong, after a six-month enemy occupation of the region.

OWI correspondent David Chandler reported from recently-liberated Kweilin that the Japanese had sacked the once-beautiful capital of Kwangsi province as utterly as the Romans sacked Carthage.

Early reports said only one Japanese interceptor was spotted and antiaircraft fire was reported moderate.

Legion Makes Check
On American Graves
Located In Europe

Indianapolis, Aug. 6. (P)—Neal James of Milwaukee, American Legion national field secretary, will leave for London tomorrow to start the Legion's inspection of the graves of All American war dead in the European theater, Legion officials announced tonight.

James will set up headquarters in London for a service that will inspect the grave of every American buried in 26 cemeteries in 12 European countries and send a report to the next of kin. James' staff will be increased gradually until up to 12 Legion inspectors are serving in the European area.

The Legion also disclosed its plans to expand the service to the Pacific after V-J day and to photograph each grave if the war department will permit. The Legion also expects to aid in the return of soldiers' bodies from foreign graves.

James is a veteran of both world wars, having served as a sergeant in army intelligence in each. He was discharged in 1943 and served with the Red Cross abroad before entering the Legion's field service.

Lumpkin, Ga., Aug. 6. (P)—An engineer was burned to death and about 18 persons injured, two seriously, when a two-coach Seaboard Airline passenger train crashed into the rear of a freight train today near here, Station Agent C. K. Parker reported.

He said I. T. Hines of Americus, Ga., engineer on the passenger, died in flames when his gas-powered engine caught fire in the collision. Hines, he said, had only five or six more trips to make before retirement.

The trains were enroute from Savannah, Ga., to Montgomery, Ala.

Explosion And Fire
In Detroit Church
Home Fatal To Five

Detroit, Aug. 6. (P)—Two more deaths today brought to five the total fatalities in the explosion and fire Sunday at the Evangelical Home for Orphans and Old People.

Seven-year-old Alfred Cade, whose twin brother Albert died Sunday night, succumbed from burns at Receiving hospital. Ida Albrecht, 85, who was overcome by smoke, also died at the hospital.

Two other aged wards of the institution, Elizabeth Berch, 82, and Christine Lenth, 80, died Sunday night.

Police said today their investigation indicated that the Cade twins had been playing with matches in the basement laundry and that a lighted match had been tossed into a container of inflammable fluid.

Terrible Force
Of U.S. Secret
Weapon Bared

By John M. Hightower
Washington, Aug. 6. (P)—The most terrible destructive force ever harnessed by man—atomic energy—is now being turned on the islands of Japan by United States bombers. The Japanese face a threat of utter desolation, and their capitulation may be greatly speeded up.

Existence of the great new weapon was announced personally by President Truman in a statement issued through the White House at 11 a. m., Eastern War Time. He said the first atomic bomb, invented and perfected in the United States, had been dropped on the Japanese army base of Hiroshima 16 hours before.

Worse Than 2,000 B-29s
That one bomb alone carried a wallop more violent than 2,000 B-29 Superfortresses normally could hand an enemy city, using old type TNT bombs.

Secretary of War Stimson followed through with a report that the blast stirred a cloud of smoke and dust so impenetrable as to make immediate, accurate observation of results impossible. The power of the bomb, Stimson said, is such as to "stagger the imagination" and he asserted it would "prove a tremendous aid" in shortening the Japanese war.

Last Chance Lost
Stimson's emphasis on this point renewed speculation all over again as to whether Japan may be completely crushed by air attack without invasion.

Mr. Truman noted that the Japanese rejected the Big 3 surrender ultimatum from Potsdam, and that this had been intended to spare the Japanese people from "utter destruction."

Now, he said, with the new bomb, the Japanese "may expect a rain of ruin from the air, the like of which has never been seen on this earth."

The announcement heralded an

URANIUM ATOM
USES FANTASTICWar Discovery May Lead
To Revolution In Fuel
And Heating Problems

Washington, Aug. 6. (P)—Qualified scientists see the atom-blasting of Japan as the potential start toward telephone booth-size heating plants for great factories and 1,000-hour auto trips on one gram of fuel—but not certainly and certainly not now.

It all comes down to the question of learning to control the awful forces unleashed when the ultimate components of matter are torn apart. The problem is roughly comparable to figuring out how to use the power of a TNT explosion to drive the family lawn mower. It's about that near solution.

Only a handful of experts and Allied leaders know the complete workings of the devastating weapon. They are pledged to secrecy. Others, among them authors of treatises on atomic energy, students of discoveries in that field from the time of the Curies, and men who worked for the war effort but not with the new bomb, expressed amazement that such a weapon could have been made. But they said that now that it has, its possibilities are limitless.

Those who have worked closely with modern power but who know little of the atomic bomb as developed, say peacetime uses are presently incalculable.

One expert, who withheld use of his name, ventured the estimate that with a few grams of uranium, the source of energy in the atomic bombs, it might be possible to power the Queen Mary on a round trip from Europe to the United States and back.

However, the experts—and they were backed up by the statements of Secretary of War Stimson—agreed that it will not be a development that will pop up as soon as the war is over.

Uranium is rare and expensive; two billion dollars was spent just to get the bombs going against Japan and thousands of persons worked on separate phases.

PATROLS MAUL JAPS

Jet-Plane Crash,
Kills Maj. Bong,
Top Sky Fighter

MAJ. BONG

Burbank, Calif., Aug. 6. (P)—Maj. Richard Ira Bong, America's leading fighter pilot in the South Pacific area before he was returned to the United States and assigned to test flying duty, was killed today in the crash of a jet-propelled P-50 plane.

Maj. Bong, who had 40 Japanese planes to his credit, was killed at 2:30 p. m. the army's western procurement office announced, about four minutes after he left the Lockheed air terminal.

Witnesses said the plane exploded with a terrific roar, being disintegrated as parts were hurled in small bits over a wide area at a spot within a few miles of the airport.

"A piece fell from the plane," said Mrs. J. B. Villano, who was attracted to the plane because it seemed to be flying so low. "It might have been the engine wing. Then the plane started straight down and crashed with a tremendous burst of smoke. Huge flames swelled up, plainly visible from my house, although it is about two miles from the scene of the crash."

Honeymoon In Hollywood
After returning from overseas service, the former Poplar, Wis., farm boy was assigned last June to the western district of the air technical command. He was a member of the staff assigned to Lockheed aircraft factory. His job was testing the swift new jet-propelled "Shooting Stars."

He was married last Feb. 10 to the former Marjorie Ann Vatten-dahl at Superior, Wis. They honeymooned in Hollywood.

The wiry little fighter pilot, here on a tour of air gunnery schools last year, grinned and told news-men why he had been grounded: "I guess they don't want me killed off."

After shattering Eddie Rickenbacker's World War I record of 26 enemy aircraft downed in combat, he told reporters he didn't "feel a damn bit different."

Flying partners described him as almost nerveless in combat but a "hot" pilot.

Coast Guard Hunts
Mt. Clemens Fishing
Party Of 4 Persons

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 6. (P)—The Coast Guard from Algonac today sought a party of four persons who left here early Sunday for a day's fishing.

The four, were Ferdinand Dubay, a truck company owner and his wife, Dorothy, their five-year-old niece, Mary Dubay, and Ferdinand's brother, Arthur, owner of a Mt. Clemens grocery.

The group left the mouth of the Clinton River at 6 a. m. Sunday in a 16-foot power cruiser, and intended to return at 3 p. m. The Coast Guard was notified they had not returned at 10 p. m.

Argentina Removes
Siege Restrictions

Buenos Aires, Aug. 6. (P)—The Argentine government tonight lifted Argentina's state of siege, thus removing all legal restrictions on freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly and freedom of political activity.

The state of siege, which is somewhat similar to martial law, was declared by the late President Ramon Castillo five days after the Pearl Harbor attack and was designed, Castillo said, to guarantee the security of the state.

ATOMIC BLAST
HEAVES PORT OF HIROSHIMAMESSAGES OF DOOM
ARE SHOWERED
IN NIPPON

(By The Associated Press)
Guam, Tuesday, Aug. 7.—The United States unleashed Monday the most terrible weapon in the history of war, an atomic bomb carrying the destructive power of 2,000 Superforts that crashed with annihilating force on a Japanese army base, Washington announced.

Official sources here remained silent, but Secretary of War Stimson declared in Washington that the big base and port of Hiroshima on Japan's inland sea was engulfed in "an impenetrable cloud of dust and smoke."

Transmitters on nearby Saipan and on Hawaii and in San Francisco bombarded the Japanese home with broadcasts declaring that this was the annihilation promised at Potsdam for scorning the surrender ultimatum.

Smoke Hides Destruction
The messages of doom crackled across the air waves even as the smoke of spreading ruin rose over four more Japanese cities struck early yesterday by 580 Superforts unloading 3,850 tons of fire bombs.

President Truman, in his announcement of the atomic bomb, stated:

"If they do not now accept our terms they may expect a rain of ruin from the air the like of which has never been seen on this earth."

These quotations were part of the broadcasts now bombarding Japan.

Stimson said that damage at Hiroshima could not be assessed at once because of the all-enveloping pall of dust and smoke hanging over the target.

The Japanese said a small force of Superforts raided Hiroshima at 8:20 a. m. Monday (Tokyo Time) but made no mention of damage.

Unlike the four cities hit in the incendiary raid, Hiroshima received no advance warning and it was not listed among targets struck when the 20th Air Force here announced the Superfort smash.

The Japanese appeared on the verge of committing their hoarded air forces to the battle of the skies for crewmen on the Superfort raid reported some aggressive interception, including the use of jet planes.

Great Cities In Flames
One Superfort failed to return as the wave on wave of sky giants bored through the enemy interceptors and occasionally heavy flak, putting the torch to the industrial cities of Nishinomiya, Maebashi, Imari and Saga—all forewarned they were marked for annihilation.

As the raiders thundered back toward home, they reported all four cities wrapped in flames that some times were visible 150 miles at sea.

Part of the force dumped high explosives on the Ube synthetic oil plant on Honshu.

One hundred Mustangs poured rockets and machinegun slugs into the Tokyo area Sunday

JAPS SHORT OF SEAFOOD

Pacific Fishing Grounds Closed To Enemy Fleets

Washington—Seafood, an important item in the Japanese diet, is reported scarce in the home markets now that the Pacific ocean is "out-of-bounds" to the former large Jap fishing fleets. Fish, not meat, is the normal protein staple for the Japanese table. For centuries the inhabitants of these islands have been great fishermen, and their fishing fleets roved the ocean along the Kuriles, the Aleutians, the Pacific coast of Canada, and far south among the tropical Pacific islands. Kamachika waters, the Okhotsk sea, the Japan sea and the East China sea were also fishing grounds for Japanese boats, and still are to a certain extent. But these waters are becoming more and more dangerous to them, and undoubtedly long before this the better boats of the fishing fleets have been put to other uses. The entire Pacific coast, both to the south and to the east of Japan, is closed to all but "row-boat" fishing because of the presence of the American Navy on the surface and American warplanes overhead.

In addition to supplying home needs, Japan, before the war, exported many millions of pounds of fish each year, particularly to China. It exported also considerable quantities of other seafood, including shrimp and crab. Japanese tinned food was well known in the markets of the United States and Europe. Some of this was the giant king-crab of the Aleutians.

Mackerel, salmon and sardines were the principal fish from the quantity standpoint caught by the Japs. Cod, flatfish, tuna and yellow-tail were also important. Bonito, a mackerel-like fish, constituted an important catch. Cuttlefish and octopus were taken and consumed in large quantities. Whaling was also an important sea occupation of the Japs, and the value of the whales caught annually exceeded that of any other sea product except sardines. The Jap whaling grounds were the Bering sea, Okhotsk sea, waters around the Bonin islands, and other regions far to the south in the Pacific. Whale meat is eaten in Japan.

Senate Fight Due On Using Troops To Back Peace Charter

Washington, Aug. 6 (P)—Any effort to give the president unchecked authority in the use of American troops to back up world security council decisions seemed likely today to provoke a Senate fight.

Senate leaders are reported to have agreed on submission next fall of legislation which would establish the security council delegate as an ambassadorial deputy of the president but would not specifically limit the president's authority to direct a vote for use of any size American military contingent he chose.

If such a proposal is offered, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told a reporter he will seek to amend it, to require congressional authorization before any troops beyond a limited force to be specifically assigned to the security council are ordered into action.

The Michigan senator over the past week-end suggested to Secretary of State Byrnes that the president be given a free hand to use the quota forces needed for police work, but that Congress act if larger contingents are needed.

FLIER'S BODY FOUND

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 6 (P)—The body of a French flier, one of five men missing after a medium bomber plane crash in Lake St. Clair Wednesday, was recovered from the lake off Point Huron by the Coast Guard today.

The strange flattened and widened face of the hammer-head shark serves as a bow-rudder, used in making quick turns in pursuit of fish.

TEST BLAST DESCRIBED

Los Alamos, N. M., Aug. 6 (P)—A blinding flash followed within 40 seconds by a shuddering explosion that sent a huge multi-colored cloud roaring upward to an altitude of 40,000 feet and caused reverberations felt for a 250-mile radius across New Mexico and Arizona, marked the first test of the new destructive atomic bomb, conducted July 16 at a remote location on the Alamogordo, N. M., Army Air Base.

The steel tower which held the bomb was melted and turned into vapor by the blast, and in the earth of the remote New Mexico desert test ground a deep crater was gouged.

As winds dispersed the mass that had shot into the stratosphere in five minutes, and the tremendous pressure wave that knocked down two men standing outside five miles away passed over, the scientists and military authorities whispered, "this is it." They said the test of their $2,000,000,000 experiment was successful beyond all hope.

They had observed the test from ten miles. In disclosing details of the bomb which hit Japan for the first time today, the Army quoted them today as seeing a ball of fire "many times brighter than the mid-day sun."

The brilliant flash startled a blind girl, Miss Georgia Green, 120 miles away, and she asked "what's that?" Windows rattled at Gallup, N. M., 250 miles northwest.

"It was just like the sun had come up and then suddenly gone down again," one witness 150 miles west remarked.

The test had been delayed an hour and a half by a thunderstorm which prevented aerial observation.

"Earthquake" Felt

So terrific was the blast that the Associated Press in New Mexico and Arizona received numerous inquiries, some an airline distance of 250 miles from the blast scene, regarding an earthquake.

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the atomic bomb project for the war department, said the shock wave reached the observers about 40 seconds after the flash of light, then came the sound itself.

Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell, Groves' assistant, said the man-made phenomenon of such tremendous power had ever occurred before.

"The whole country was lighted by a searing light with an intensity many times that of the mid-day sun," he continued. "It was golden, purple, violet, gray and blue. It lighted every peak, crag, and ridge of the nearby mountains with a clarity and beauty that cannot be described."

Farrell expressed the belief the discovery would bring speedy conclusion of the war with Japan and predicted that it would prove to be "immeasurably more important than the discovery of electricity or any other great discoveries which have so affected our existence."

It was mounted to the top of the steel tower July 14 and two days were spent in preparation for the detonation.

The several observation points were tied into the control by radio with 20 minutes to go. At "minus 45 seconds" a robot took over "the complicated mass of intricate mechanism."

Butter, 44 Pounds, Poured Down Drain

Detroit, Aug. 6 (P)—Fearful of apprehension, John P. Nabozney, 35, poured 44 pounds of illegally-purchased butter down a drain.

Nabozney made the admission today to U. S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd when arraigned on charges of receiving two cases of butter, stolen from a railroad freight car.

The defendant, held for further court inquiry, said he melted the butter in hot water and poured it down the drain. He said he bought it for $22 from six youths, who have been arrested.

AFL TO BREAK OFF WITH IFTU

British Labor's Desire To Join Soviets Stirs Up Dissatisfaction

BY HAROLD WARD

Chicago, Aug. 6 (P)—Withdrawal of the American Federation of Labor from the International Federation of Trade Unions was predicted tonight by AFL President William Green, probably foreshadowing complete dissolution of the IFTU.

The isolationist move is rooted in the AFL's displeasure at the British labor organization's desire to join hands with Soviet trades unionists and the CIO in this country.

The disclosure was made at a news conference here at the conclusion of today's opening session of the AFL executive council meeting.

After asserting that the AFL would not send delegates to the IFTU meeting, Green admitted that the AFL is "likely to withdraw from the international picture."

It is not a complete break with the British unionists, but continuation of the IFTU would be futile, Green said.

The AFL has consistently opposed bringing either the Soviet groups, with their more than 25 million members who can dominate any world labor organization, or its own American rival—the Congress of Industrial Organizations—into the IFTU.

The CIO, aware of this, has fought for: (1) entrance into the IFTU, along with the Russian labor unions, or (2) formation of another world organization.

Nippon Naval Base Of Toyokawa Gets Going Over By B29s

BY JAMES LINDSLEY

Guam, Tuesday, Aug. 7 (P)—Japan's great Toyokawa naval arsenal near Nagoya was pounded heavily by high explosive bombs by 125 Superforts from the Marianas about noon today.

Results were described as excellent. Ackack was meager and there was no fighter opposition, a spokesman reported after General Spatz announced the raid in a communiqué.

Two-based Mustang fighters escorted the B-29s.

The arsenal, attacked for the first time by Superforts, was rated one of Japan's first 10 of its type. The blow was described as of prime importance in the systematic reduction of Japanese war industries.

Toyokawa arsenal is located on a coastal plain northeast of Atsumi Bay, about 37 miles southeast of Nagoya Castle.

Flour for bakeries using it in 25,000-pound lots is now being transported from the mills in bulk, in giant sealed tanks mounted on railroad flatcars and is protected against moisture, dust or vermin, and is at no time subjected to the touch of air or human hands.

Production of baby carriages, strollers, and walkers in 1944 totaled 1,636,000 units, an increase of 32 per cent over that of 1943.

Terrible Force Unloosed To Destroy Japan

Anglo-American victory at a cost of $2,000,000,000 in one of the grimmest battles of the war—the battle of the laboratories—to unlock the secrets of the atom and yoke its energies to military use.

The Germans were striving desperately to win this highly secret contest in the closing months of the European struggle.

Sun Energy Used

President Truman said the new bomb, which draws its energy from the same sources as the sun, had more power than 20,000 tons of TNT, itself a tremendously powerful explosive. Since one B-29 ordinarily can deliver about 10 tons of bombs to a target that means that 2,000 Superfortresses would be required to accomplish with TNT the destruction that one plane with one of these new bombs can achieve.

By another standard, Mr. Truman declared the bomb has 2000 times the blast power of the 11-ton British "Grand Slam" bomb—the most concentrated bundle of destruction previously known on this earth.

In fact, in evaluating the enormous power involved in this new weapon, the president had to reach beyond the limits of the earth for comparison.

Chance For Propaganda

"It is a harnessing of the basic power of the universe," he said. "The force from which the sun draws its power has been loosed against those who brought war to the Far East."

This line appeared to hold dramatic possibilities for propaganda against the Japanese. They regard their Emperor Hirohito as a direct descendant of the sun goddess. Now they can be told that the very power of the sun itself is being turned to their destruction.

Still thick secrecy shrouds much of the atomic bomb work despite the intense excitement in the usually staid government offices, which attended today's startling announcement. Its size has not been revealed, beyond the statement that the size of the explosive charge is exceedingly small. Nor was it told how the atoms are stored for the moment of explosion.

The start of the project which the government secretly named "Manhattan Project," goes back before the war.

Germans Tried It

For years scientists had experimented with "splitting the atom"—that is breaking off electrons from atoms to see what would happen. They realized that energy was released but also that it would take literally billions of atoms—perhaps massed into a shape the size of a pea—to release enough energy to have a terrific explosive effect.

But they knew also that once they got it they would have something unlike any force ever before released on earth. The British, and presumably scientists of all other leading nations were at work on these experiments.

"By 1939," Mr. Truman said in his statement, "it was the accepted belief to scientists that it was theoretically possible to release atomic energy. But no one knew any practical method of doing it."

"By 1942, however, we knew that the Germans were working feverishly to find a way to add atomic energy to the other engines of war with which they hoped to enslave the world. But they failed."

"We may be grateful to Providence that the Germans got the V-1's and the V-2's late and in limited quantities (those were the buzz bombs and the rockets used on London) and even more grateful that they did not get the atomic bomb at all."

Research Pooled

In 1940, months before Pearl Harbor, the United States and Great Britain pooled their ultra-secret knowledge on atomic energy. Specific research on an atomic bomb was begun.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed it should be concentrated in this country because of facilities and scientists available and because of the greater safety from enemy action. Two great plants and many lesser ones were built and are now in operation. The total cost with research and other items has been $2,000,000,000.

One of these plants was located at Oak Ridge, Tenn., in the mountainous TVA country. A whole new city was constructed where only a little rural community had stood. Today it has a population of 75,000. The plant is known as the Clinton Engineer Works. It covers 59,000 acres.

Out in Washington State another "secret city" blossomed where once the little sagebrush hamlet of Richland had passed its tranquil days.

Near Santa Fe, N. M., a special laboratory was set up to handle technical problems.

Plants Remain Mystery

What goes on in these plants and others is still one of America's greatest secrets. It took 125,000 persons to construct them and more than 65,000 are now employed in operating them—but only a handful have known what happens there, President Truman disclosed. Many learned from today's announcement for the first time how truly vital has been "Manhattan Project" to victory.

President Truman put it this way: "Many have worked there (in the plants) for two and a half years. Few know what they have been producing. They see great quantities of material going in and they see nothing coming out of these plants, for the physical size of the explosive charge is exceedingly small. We have spent $2,000,000,000 on the greatest scientific gamble in history—and won."

Some of them who worked on "Manhattan Project" were named by Stimson. Originally the undertaking was in charge of Dr. Vannevar Bush, chief of Office of Scientific Research and Development. Along with Bush, President Roosevelt named a policy committee of the then Vice President Wallace, Stimson, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University.

Picture Withheld

It was at the suggestion of this group that, in 1942, the work was greatly expanded and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves was placed in complete control.

Exactly what the bomb is remains one of the mysteries surrounding it. The army considered releasing a picture of it today, but decided not to. The president let it be known that the explosive charge is "exceedingly small"—it may be no larger than a pea, a marble or a golf ball.

However, around that mighty center there may be quite a large bomb casing both to protect the explosive and also to house whatever machinery is needed to set it off at just the instant it will do the most damage.

How it effects that damage is another unanswered question. All that is known is the uranium, an unstable radio-active element enters into the manufacture of the explosive. Uranium is found chiefly in Canada and the Belgian Congo. There is a little in the United States, a bit also in Germany.

GADGET DOES EVERYTHING

Chicago, Aug. 6 (P)—An electric appliance manufacturer said today a combination clothes washer, potato peeler, dish washer and ice cream freezer will be on the market early in 1946, barring unexpected developments.

Nuerberg was once called the toy headquarters of the world.

Missing Household Appliances To Hit Markets This Fall

Washington, Aug. 6 (P)—Limited quantities of long-scarce or completely missing household appliances will begin reaching markets this fall, the War Production Board predicted today.

Frederick M. Mitchell, director of the Consumers Durable Goods Division, gave this item-by-item outlook:

Mechanical refrigerators—Priorities assistance has been provided for 265,000 home-type mechanical refrigerators in the third quarter of 1945, but actual production is not expected to exceed 150,000.

Washing machines—Actual third quarter production is expected to be about 50,000.

Sewing machines about 100,000 expected to be made in the third quarter.

Fans—About 25,000 propeller-type fans are scheduled.

Electric irons—About 526,000 may be produced in the third quarter and 750,000 in the fourth quarter.

Small electric appliances—Only small quantities of toasters, waffle irons, casseroles, percolators, dry shavers, heating pads and cigarette lighters expected to be made in the third quarter because of shortages of resistance and plating materials.

Beds, springs, etc.—Third quarter production may be about $21-000,000 worth.

Vacuum cleaners—About 40-000 may be produced in the third

Army Plane Makes Mercy Flight With Paralyzed Boy, 15

Sheridan, Wyo., Aug. 6 (P)—An army plane flew here today on a mercy flight in behalf of a Detroit boy who was paralyzed in a swimming mishap Friday.

A second air force plane from Colorado Springs, Colo., came to take 15-year-old David Smeltzer, son of Major and Mrs. Merrill Smeltzer, to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

David suffered a fractured vertebrae when another swimmer struck him while diving.

Mrs. Smeltzer left by train for Rochester. The father is an army physician in the South Pacific.

Electric ranges—About 45,000 expected in the third quarter and 60,000 in the fourth quarter.

Alarm clocks—Some on the market now. About 2,000,000 expected to be made in the third quarter.

ROAD BLOCKADE WILL CONTINUE

Conservation Dep't To Check On Deer Poachers

The state conservation department will continue to operate "road blockades" on highways leading out of the deer country as often as is considered necessary to check the current wave of deer law violations, Director P. J. Hoffmaster said Saturday.

Refusal of Walter B. Brown, prosecuting attorney of Midland county, to handle cases resulting from a statewide blockade two weekends ago and a ruling by Attorney General John Dethmers against indiscriminate search for illegal game leaves the department exactly where it was before, according to Hoffmaster.

"We have always known that game law cases resulting from car searches made against the owner's will might be thrown out of court," Hoffmaster explains. "Our officers for years have been under orders to ask permission to search cars for contraband game or fish."

"Public Is With Us"

"On the other hand, we believe more than 95 per cent of the public is with us in our drive to halt the current wave of deer killing and the highway blockade is too valuable a tool to be given up. The department will set up such blockades wherever and whenever we believe the situation demands. Violators coming out of the deer country can expect to be checked at any time."

Meanwhile, the reaction of sportsmen's clubs throughout the state indicates widespread approval of the department's crackdown that resulted in 46 arrests in the blockade two weeks ago.

The Detroit Sportsmen's congress, largest game organization in the country, which had advocated road blockades to combat the growing epidemic of deer killing, gave complete support and approval. The congress has offered to post rewards for the conviction of deer law violators if the department believes such a plan would be helpful.

In Hollywood

EDITORS: Hollywood notables have volunteered to serve as "guest columnists" while Erskine Johnson is on vacation. The column below was written by actor Dennis O'Keefe.

Hollywood—Actually, trouble all began last Thursday when I received the invitation to guest-write this column. Having once portrayed a dashing reporter on the screen, I was pleased — nay, thrilled! — at the prospect of dish-ing up the latest Hollywood gossip.

That was Thursday. Now it is the following Monday and I am still seated before my trusty typewriter with not a mark on the paper.

As a last resort, I guess I could use this column to write about myself. But that would be too egotistical. On the other hand, it would fill up this column.

Propaganda Dept.: My favorite publicity story is a three-line item which appeared in a movie magazine at the very beginning of my film career. To write this item, one of the geniuses in the studio publicity department must have made the rounds of every city hall in the country just to trace my family tree.

It read: "A deep bow to the new he-man discovery, Dennis O'Keefe, for never trading on the fact that he is a second cousin to Laurence Olsen O'Keefe who, in the last century, lived for 30 years on a Cherokee Indian reservation!"

You Can't Get Out In-Between Pictures Dept.: I have never known an actor who felt he could leave this mad movie-making business and become contented in some other line of work. You just can't be happy anywhere else once you've succumbed to the lure of the greasepaint. Recently I overheard a pair of once-famous actors who were discussing their sad plight. Mourned one: "Why, I haven't appeared in a single picture in five years." "That's nothing," replied the other. "I haven't had a part since sound came in. I sure wish I could figure out some way to get out of this business."

It Can Happen Here Dept.: I try never to forget the fact that I am one of the few very lucky individuals who started out as an extra and succeeded in becoming a fairly successful actor. All too well I recall my many struggles and problems. Some of my friends from those extra-days and I are currently working on a plan to establish a club for struggling young actors similar to the famed Hollywood Studio Club for girls. Our project is gaining momentum and many of the biggest stars and executives of the industry have promised their full support.

True Confessions Dept.: For several years now I've been promising myself that one of these days I'm going to become a director! I've been studying and reading books on camera techniques, angles and shadows so that when my big chance comes I'll be able to hit the mark. Then only will it be great to let the years roll by without having to worry where the next paycheck is coming from. Gray hair in front of the camera is a disaster; back of it, it is a mark of distinction.

Two Faculty Members Resign Positions Here

HELEN SNYDER

R. P. BOWERS

The resignation of two staff members of the Escanaba high school to accept administrative positions in other cities was announced here yesterday.

Helen Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Snyder of this city, has resigned to accept a position as dean of women at Northland college, and R. Paul Bowers, music teacher here for the past 16 years, has resigned to accept a position as superintendent of schools at Rapid River. Miss Snyder has been an English teacher at the local high school since March, 1934.

Mr. Bowers received his bachelor of arts degree at Grinnell college and has been director of music in the local high school since 1929. He has directed many outstanding musical organizations in the city, including the a capella choir.

Miss Snyder was graduated from Escanaba high school, class of 1928, and was the recipient of the Rotary award. She received her bachelor of arts degree in 1933 from Lawrence college, where she majored in English, and was active in debating and dramatics.

While at Lawrence, Miss Snyder was elected to the Mortarboard honorary society.

Miss Snyder received her master's degree in 1943 from Northwestern university, where she majored in guidance. While there, she was elected a member of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary scholastic sorority.

While engaged as an English teacher in the Escanaba high school, Miss Snyder has also served as girls' counselor and dramatics coach. She has been a member of the state professional problems commission of the Michigan Education association the past two years, and was local president of the M. E. A. during the 1943-44 term. She is also a member of the Orpheus Choral club.

As dean of women of Northland college, she will have supervision over students' organizations and will do guidance work. She also will handle two regular classes, in English and dramatics.

Resignation of Carolyn Gates, Okeo, Wis., second grade teacher in the Jefferson school, also was announced yesterday.

Curtis Resident Burned To Death

Newberry, Mich. — Henry Charles Smith, 39, Curtis, burned to death Thursday night while sleeping in his panel truck about one mile east of Curtis on the Sand Town road.

Vern Zenker, 16, Curtis, reported the fatality to Robert McConnell, Curtis grocer, about 11 a. m. Friday. McConnell immediately notified the Newberry State Police post.

It is believed Smith fell asleep while smoking.

It was reported he had had an argument with his wife on the night of his death, and took his truck and a mattress, and drove to the spot where he was found.

The inside of the truck was badly burned and from the position of the body, it was believed Smith did not move after falling asleep.

Social Security Pays Out 8 3-4 Billion In 10 Years

By JANE EADS

Washington (P)—America's Social Security system, 10 years old Tuesday has paid nearly $87,750,000,000 in benefits to individuals and families.

These billions have helped remove fear and insecurity from the minds of millions of Americans—the aged, the unemployed, the dependent and the blind.

And now—as the anniversary date rolls around—the Social Security board expects the greatest dip into its funds.

Great numbers of old people will want to retire when war production ceases. Housewives and handicapped will be laid off. Thousands will be moving from one job to another. Between jobs they'll claim unemployment compensation.

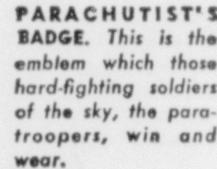

The Social Security board estimates there will be between 3½ and 5 million aged persons on the benefit rolls by 1960. It thinks almost 2 million widowed mothers and children may be getting monthly benefits. As of July 1 this year, 1,285,000 persons were drawing old age and survivors benefits.

Sulfuric Acid Has Many Postwar Uses

Washington —The sulfuric acid industry of the United States, now producing at a rate of over 10,000,000 tons a year, does not face as severe a cut-back in production after the war as many other industries because much of the acid used in the production of war essentials is not consumed in the process and is recovered and re-marketed, being suitable for use in other industries. In postwar days it will go directly to these present secondary users.

"The sulfuric acid value supplied the TNT manufacturer, approximately 95 per cent is returned to the market as a recovered spent acid," states Alonzo White III, of the War Production Board, in the current issue of Chemical and Engineering News, "and may be used to fulfill requirements in the steel, petroleum, heavy chemical, and superphosphate fertilizer industries." The publication is an official organ of the American Chemical Society here.

TRAPP FAMILY'S OLD HOME—This picturesque villa, just outside Salzburg, Austria, formerly the home of the famous Trapp Family Singers, was chosen by Heinrich Himmler as the Austrian headquarters for the SS. Now, with $150,000 worth of improvements installed by Himmler, it will be returned to the Trapp Family by the United States Government.

Himmler SS Used Trapp Estate For Headquarters

Stowe, Vermont, July 26—When the famous Trapp Family Singers consisting of Baron and Baroness von Trapp, their seven daughters and two sons, and their musical mentor, Father Franz Wagner, came to this country eight years ago as voluntary exiles from their native Austria following the Nazi Anschluss, they renounced their ancestral estate and magnificent villa at Aigen just outside the festival city of Salzburg, of their own free will, rather than compromise their ideology with that of the German invaders.

Sons Visit Old Home

Now from Aigen to the Trapps' New World home in Stowe, Vermont has come a dramatic story forwarded by the elder sons of the singing family—Sergeants Rupert and Werner von Trapp, who have been serving overseas with the United States Ninth Army Infantry.

Upon the cessation of European hostilities, the Sergeants von Trapp, who had been situated in Italy very near the Austrian border, were given short furloughs and permitted to cross over into their homeland and revisit their native Salzammergut. Naturally, their first thought was to see what had become of the family seat at Aigen.

They found the house and its vast wooded grounds quite unharmed, and, in fact rather startlingly changed for the better. Investigation revealed that, shortly after the flight of the Trapps, the villa had been taken over by no less a Nazi luminary than Heinrich Himmler, himself, who had chosen it for the headquarters of the S. S. in Austria, and had completely renovated the property to the estimated tune of one hundred fifty thousand dollars ($150,000). A super-modern heating system had been installed in the house, itself, which was also air-conditioned throughout. Luxurious marble bathrooms had been built in, and cable and telephone lines to Berlin, Munich and Berchtesgaden set up. In addition, Himmler had erected his own electric plant and water pump and had built seven small but luxuriously appointed houses for the members of his personal guard. An electrically heated greenhouse was also erected on the property. But perhaps the high spot of the renovation was the transformation of the Baron and Baroness von Trapp's own sleeping quarters into a palatial suite reserved for Adolf Hitler, himself, who is reported to have been a resident at the Villa Trapp whenever he visited the Salzburg region.

Americans Stationed There

The estate, which, with all the improvements made by Himmler, has virtually tripled in value, is now held in protective custody by the United States Government, and American Army officers are stationed there. However, the Trapps have been advised that the property is to revert to them as their rightful legal possession, and that negotiations are underway for the United States State Department to rent the house and land from the family for official use.

The Trapps, who are on the road to becoming United States citizens, have no intention of re-occupying the villa, and plan to make their permanent home, henceforth, on the six hundred acre Vermont farm which they have purchased with the profits from their six cross-country Am-

WOMAN FLIES OVER VOLCANO

Writer Looks Down At Paricutin From Helicopter

BY CHRISTINA BUECHNER
Science Service Staff Writer
Uruapan, Mexico—As the first woman to fly in a helicopter over the Mexican volcano Paricutin near here, this correspondent had the feeling of viewing very closely a natural drama from a grandstand seat in a show window.

There was no feeling of danger in sitting in the transparent bulge of the cockpit while Flight Officer Roy P. Bee buzzed the crater in the Army's hovering helicopter R6A, one of the many flights made during two weeks of exploration that simultaneously tested this unusual craft's performance at high altitude and explored the erupting volcano. There was so much of interest to see that there was no time for feeling afraid.

Our take-off was from the helicopter camp just beyond where the lava ceased to flow some months ago after engulfing the little town of San Juan Parangaricutiro, leaving only the steeple of the church in sight. The helicopter needs only a little clear space to land and take off. From this, 7,200 feet above sea level, the helicopter rose to 1,500 feet above the crater which rises a thousand feet above what was merely a cornfield from which the volcano burst forth 2½ years ago.

By JAMES HUTCHESON
With the 38th Division on Luzon, Philippines, (P)—Adone Santiago is probably the only soldier in the Philippines who ever cried because he couldn't go hunting Japanese in the mountains.

James Hutcheson

He cried like the small boy he is. Pvt. Santiago of the Philippine Commonwealth Army is only 13 years old. He looks like a toy soldier in the flesh. The conclusion of a mortar blast might blow all 65 pounds of him away.

But little Adone's military prowess is a thing to command respect. The Filipino major commanding his unit says Adone's comrades have confirmed his claim to having killed seven Japs—one during two years as a Guerrilla and six since the Guerrilla units have been absorbed into the army organization.

Adone looks more like a mascot than a member of the team. He is in regular uniform, slightly oversized. G. I. clothing wasn't made for 13 year olds. His steel helmet hangs around his head like an oversized sunbonnet. His combat boots, which are half again his size, just about reach to his knees—or where his knees should be. All you can do I guess where his knees are in the drooping folds of those breeches.

Private Adone has a deep-rooted hatred of the Japanese. In faltering monosyllabic English, he tells how Japanese killed both his mother and father in their Manila home early in the war.

An only child, Adone said he was playing under the house when Japanese soldiers entered.

"I see through floor," he related, gesticulating, and big, boyish eyes rolling. "Japs try take my mother. My father fight them. Japs bayonet my father, my mother."

Adone says he later hiked with two older boys to Bataan and tagged along with Guerrillas, living in the open.

Now he is in a Filipino unit attached to the Battalion of Lt. Col. Robert W. King of Terre Haute, Ind., and wants to continue an army career. "I like to go patrols after Japs," he said. A carbine is his weapon.

His major said he hoped Adone would be able to continue in the army because of his enthusiasm for it, but he said the boy might be eliminated when army physical standards are instituted.

"Once I was sending out a patrol on a difficult three-day mission," the major explained. "I told Adone he couldn't go because he wasn't strong enough. He broke down and cried about it. He always wants to go on every patrol. I don't know whether it is that he is a very good shot or just lucky, but the other men verify that he killed three Japs. He got two of them one day."

Adone says the Japanese have shot at him several times but it doesn't scare him, and he doesn't think they are very good soldiers.

WEST VIRGINIA GETS REVENGE

24-Year-Old Battleship Comes Back After Pearl Harbor

Guam, (P)—The old battleship West Virginia came back from the grave the Japanese made for her with bombs and torpedoes at Pearl Harbor to thunder terrible vengeance in the Philippines and at two Jima and Okinawa, Pacific fleet headquarters disclosed today.

A magnificent battle performance won the designation of "task force 48"—as her crew fondly calls her—for the 24-year-old fighting ship.

It was the West Virginia, raised from Pearl Harbor a battered and grotesque hulk after the Japanese attack, that came back in new armor to lead the column of battleships into Leyte Gulf.

Her 16-inch guns thundered the signal for the start of the American invasion and return to the Philippines in October, 1944.

The West Virginia was proudly flying the same flag that had waved from her mast when she went to the bottom.

After the Leyte beachheads were secured, the West Virginia again led the battleships to meet Japan's fleet in the battle of Leyte Gulf. Her shells hit the leading enemy ship. It burst into flames, serving as another American victory beacon.

The West Virginia supported other Philippine landings at Mindoro and at Lingayen Gulf. And then, in February of this year, bombarded Iwo Jima. Okinawa was next. She emptied her magazine several times there.

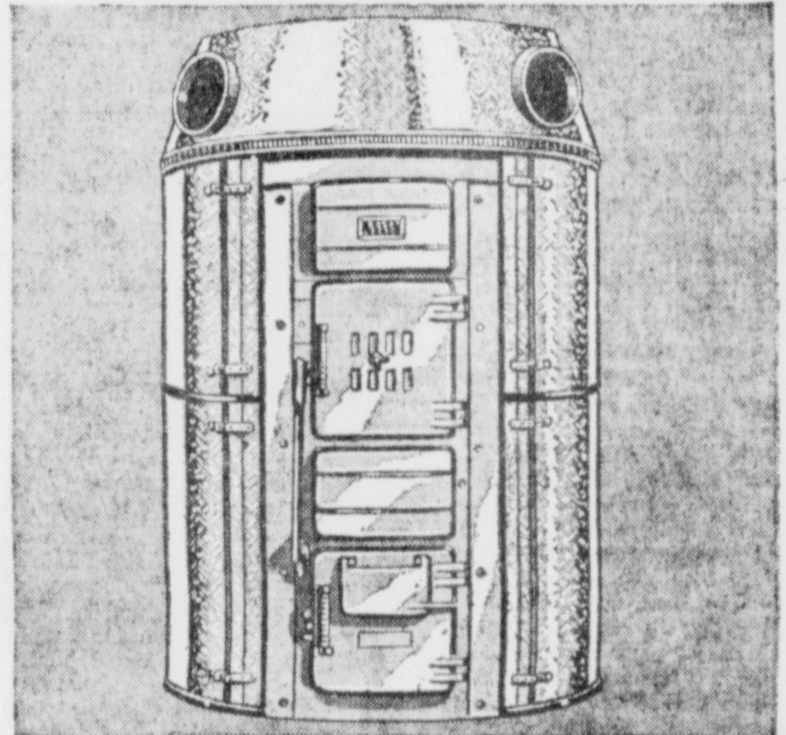

At Pearl Harbor, the West Virginia was moored outboard of the USS Tennessee at Ford Island and bore the brunt of the Japanese attack. Two bombs and six torpedoes sent her to the bottom, a flaming wreck.

At least 150,000 variations in existing manuscripts of the New Testament of the Bible can be found.

Gin of pre-war quality

made from pre-war imported botanicals

1 Today Hiram Walker brings you gin made with the same imported herbs, roots and berries used in making Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.

2 And remember, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor, Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Today, you can once again enjoy the pleasure of real, pre-war quality gin.

For Hiram Walker's Gin is made not only to pre-war formula... but from pre-war imported botanicals which are unobtainable today.

The reason we now have these rare botanicals like cassia from China and coriander from Czechoslovakia, is this: Prior to the war it was our policy to purchase these botanicals in the best crop years and far in excess of our annual requirements. This enabled us always to have on hand a treasured reserve.

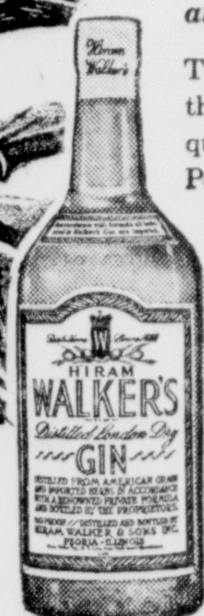

When we suspended gin distilling in favor of war production in February 1942, this priceless reserve was carefully preserved and sealed away.

Today, it's these pre-war, imported botanicals that give Hiram Walker's Gin its real, pre-war quality. The quality which, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor, led Americans to buy more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

The Lyons Den

—By Leonard Lyons—

The PAC wanted to capture the Roosevelt name by offering its top job to Eleanor Roosevelt. Secretary Harold Ickes may be prevailed upon to accept it. Ickes, incidentally, will appear before the Mead War Investigating Committee tomorrow to testify on the coal shortage. He will blame the shortage on the Army's refusal to release the necessary miners now in uniform. Dorothy Parker received word that her husband, Capt. Alan Campbell, is in a French hospital after a jeep accident. In his spare time Capt. Campbell is collaborating with Gertrude Stein on her new play. His first project was to try and decipher its plot.

The new Betty Fields picture, "The Southerner," which has been banned by the censors in Memphis will have the support of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Capt. David Ginsburg, the former counsel for the Office of Price Administration, will be in charge of prices and rationing for Gen. Clay's German Control group. Dumini, the slayer of the anti-Fascist martyr, Matteotti, was discovered working as a chauffeur for the AMG in Piacenza, Italy. Ferdinand Eberstadt, former strong man for the War Production Board, is joining UNKRA. He will be in charge of the D. P.'s—Displaced Persons.

Coast Guardsman Donald Malony, whose quick-wittedness helped save 12 lives in the Empire State Building plane-crash tragedy, is a member of a wealthy General Motors family. After receiving all the official acclaim which was his due, the youngster—in refusing all drinks—said that the only thing he thought he needed was an ice-cream soda. Malony will study medicine after the war is over.

Vittorio Mussolini's resplendent Cinema City, on the outskirts of Rome, which he once dreamed would become the movie center of the world, now is being used as a detention and examination center for Fascist political prisoners. The Surgeon General soon will release the Army's point-discharge program for its doctors. The program, which will be made public after President Truman returns here, probably will require a minimum of 110 discharge points. After 90 days this minimum will be lowered. The Senate War Investigating Committee will start new hearings in Seattle and San Francisco next week.

Lt. Col. Chester Hansen probably will become Gen. Omar Bradley's deputy administrator at the Veterans Administration. The U. S. Treasury will propose liberal conversion cost allowances in the new tax bill. A Chicago Congressman was in love with a young lady more than 30 years ago. They never married because he couldn't afford to support a wife. After a long engagement, they separated. Last February the new Congressman received a congratulatory letter from the lady. He replied quickly, and learned that she hadn't married any one else. He resumed his courtship. They will be wed in October.

The leading aspirants for the District Attorney's job in Brooklyn, which will be vacated by Brig. Gen. Bill O'Dwyer, the Mayoralty candidate are ex-County Judge Pinto for the Republicans and Judge Marchisio for the Democrats. Burton Turkus, who prosecuted Murder Inc., may enter the race. During Gen. Patton's visit to Washington a White House secretary became alarmed when he read a headline: "Patty Says 'Wherry Amendment' Is Silly on Face of It." He held a quick conference on the strategy to be adopted. "Take it easy," one of his colleagues informed the relieved man, "it's only Jim Patton, head of the Farmers Union."

Birthday Party
Little Barbara-Anne Kittner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Kittner, celebrated her fifth birthday party with her guests in the scenic gardens at The Dells. Mrs. J. A. Flath and Mrs. Rod Kittner assisted the children with the games they played. Mrs. H. E. Flath, Mrs. Howard Dufour and Miss Esther Hultman served as hostesses. A very attractive table setting consisted of a tablecloth designed with matching plates and napkins which was in keeping with the theme of the garden party. Midsummer flowers were arranged at each end of the tables and a two-tier birthday cake was centered. Hand-made lace candy cups for each child were cleverly arranged at each place. The luncheon was deliciously planned for the occasion; all the little guests enjoyed the party immensely.

Barbara-Anne was presented with many lovely gifts.

Miss Vivian Botrow
Weds Don F. Lewis

At a ceremony performed at St. Ann church on August 4, Miss Vivian Irene Botrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Frappier, 1607 North 20th street, became the bride of Don F. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis of Harris. The couple exchanged vows before Rev. Fr. O'Neil D'Amour. Music of the mass was sung by the St. Ann senior choir, and Mrs. Tom Tougiant sang the "Ave Maria."

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette, with a lace bodice, long sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. She wore a pearl necklace, and her finger-tip veil was gathered in a pearl tiera. Her maid of honor was her sister, Miss Genevieve Botrow, and bridesmaids were Doris Botrow and Evelyn Popour. They wore pastel gowns of yellow, pink and blue, with matching headresses. The maid of honor carried yellow roses, and the bridesmaids wore shoulder corsages. Royal Taylor was the best man, and ushers were Ray Poisson and Richard Couchene.

Mrs. Frappier chose for her daughter's wedding a brown dress with white accessories, and Mrs. Lewis wore a light blue dress with navy accessories. Both mothers wore harmonizing corsages.

A dinner was served at the home of the bride. Centerpiece of the table was a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home in Harris.

Guests from out of town who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver DesJardin and daughter, Eleanor, of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Nap DesJardin, of Cooks; Mr. and Mrs. Herb Popour and daughter, Alice, of Cooks; Mr. and Mrs. Alec LaLonde, Manistique; Mrs. Fred LaLonde, Garden; Wilbur Tanguay, Harold Popour, Edmond Popour and Pfc. SUMMER BRIDE—Miss Goldie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Nahma, became the bride of Kenneth V. Bogar of South Bend, Ind., at a ceremony performed on July 7 at the Riverside church of Perkins.

Cabbage Leaves
Keep Head Cool

Tennis player? Put inside your visored cap a crisp cabbage leaf, as the lady-champions—and for that matter, the men—do. Used thusly, the cabbage sheds its leaves for a good cause. Under the pelting sun, it serves as a shield for preserving the moisture in your hair.

A cabbage leaf works just as well, of course, under your bathing cap, if the sun bombards your head when you swim.

After a few minutes, even a loafer on the grass or the beach should cover her hair with a bandana, kerchief, peasant scarf, snood or beach hat. A little sunbathing makes your hair glossier and richer in color. But too much of it drains color and makes hair dull or strawy.

Hair, unlike skin, produces no protective pigment. It yields its precious oils, moisture and bright pigment as long as there is any. But when the supply is exhausted,

Goldie Clark Weds
Kenneth V. Bogar

The Riverside church of Perkins was the scene of a mid-winter wedding on July 7, when Miss Goldie Margaret Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Nahma, and Kenneth V. Bogar of South Bend, Ind., son of Garland Bogar of Los Angeles, Calif., spoke their vows before Brother J. Blosser of Cooks. Wedding music was played by Kathie Brasier.

For her wedding, the bride wore a street-length dress of blue, with white accessories and blue hat. She carried a mixed bouquet of garden flowers. Alice Bogar, sister of the bridegroom, was her attendant. She was dressed in pink, and wore white accessories, and carried a bouquet similar to the bride's. Thomas Beaudry, brother-in-law of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a dinner and reception for sixty guests was held at the Jones home in Perkins. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Blosser of Rapid River; Mr. and Mrs. Brassier and children of Munising; Mrs. K. Taylor and daughter, Shirley, of New York City; Mrs. Cora Lausten and Pauline Wehner of Cooks; Mr. and Mrs. Canger of Brampton; Mrs. Atton and children of Kiva; Mrs. Leslie Sheffield and children of Florida, who are visiting at the Curtis Blosser home in Rapid River.

Mr. and Mrs. Bogar are both graduates of the Perkins high school. The bridegroom has been employed by a trucking company in South Bend, Ind. At present, the couple is visiting with friends in Perkins.

RIALTO BLDG.BLIGHT THREAT
WARNING GIVENPotato Crop In Region
Menaced Says County Agent

Warning of a blight threat to the local potato crop is issued by Joseph Heirman, county agent. This is the beginning of the blight season, he says. Some blight has been found in the lower part of the state and present weather conditions tend to favor the spread. There is a likelihood, he warns, that it will find its way north in a few days.

Blight will attack not only potatoes but also tomatoes and related plants. The potato crop and vegetables in the garden have been growing rapidly in the last two weeks which means that there is a large percentage of young tender stocks and leaves. Blight will hit these before it will hit the rest of the plant. It is therefore very important that the young growth be covered with either a spray or dust. In order to be on the safe side one should spray or dust with Bordeaux mixture or some other fixed copper every week.

Bordeaux mixture is used mostly in the control of blight chiefly due to the fact that other materials are hard to get while still others have not proven out satisfactorily. The same formula is still recommended as in past years: 8 pounds of copper sulphate, and 12 pounds lime in 100 gallons of water. For potatoes use 100 to 125 gallons of spray material per acre and apply with a pressure sprayer using 300 to 400 pounds of pressure.

For tomatoes cut the strength of the solution. Use 2 oz. copper sulphate and 3 oz. lime in 3 gallons of water. If dusting, use manufacturer's directions on package.

Five More Pounds
Of Canning Sugar
Being Allotted

Schoolcraft county residents are receiving ration stamps entitling householders to 5 more pounds of canning sugar per person boasting to ten the number of pounds each person is entitled to during the season.

George Matthews, in charge of the Manistique OPA office, states that these stamps are being mailed out as quickly as possible and that all applicants should receive their stamps in the course of a few days. He also stated that while he did not know as to whether any more sugar stamps would be granted this season, he was doubtful that there would be any further increase.

"We are working day and night in this office," said Mr. Matthews and between trying to satisfy those needing new tires and increased allotments for sugar, our work is becoming pretty much of a headache.

THE REEL AND ROD MAKE YOU AN EXPERT

In the previous story I was out with a beginner who was a dub at casting with his outfit. When I felt sorry for him and made him use my outfit he soon became expert while I, using his rod and reel could not do anything with it.

I was mad at being such a dub and started working on his reel to see how some of the faults could be overcome. His reel was a slow working reel; it didn't have half the speed which mine had. His line was thick, soft and sloppy as well as being gray with age instead of the original jet black.

When I tried to thumb the line so that it would run out to and control it, the line was too far away from the flange of the spool. The side of my thumb hurt with the strain of trying to keep the line on the line, for the reel was too short.

I had to build up the spool, so I made an arbor of the old useless line. I rewound it until it was very tight on the spool. Then I reached in my tackle box and got a new line, 12-pound test, and a spool of adhesive tape.

I wrapped the adhesive tape around the old line to make an arbor. Then over that arbor, I wound on the 150 feet of new line and it filled the spool, so that my thumb was lying easily on the line all through each cast. This meant no overruns or underruns which are the cause of most backlashes.

Then I dragged the new line behind the boat for a few hundred feet and the water took all the rolls or kinks out of it. I looked at the poor, measly, cheap reel rather hopelessly. No one can make a fine watch out of a dollar watch and I felt sorry for my friend because he had been unable to find a better reel.

I took it apart and cleaned the heavy matted grease off the inside parts and oiled them with some good but light clock oil. I adjusted the side screws until they ran with no drag and this helped make the reel about again as fast as before.

The heavy small spoon I wanted to use would not carry out over 30 to 35 feet with any accuracy so I used pinch-on lead sinkers on the line just above the leader. Then I dropped my spoon about nine inches from the rod tip and started casting. Soon I had figured out the right sinker to use to give it weight enough to cast well and accurately.

I hate the sidecast or the underhand cast but I had to use it with that measly, short four and one-half-foot rod, so I sat in the back seat of the boat where I couldn't hook my partner and got to work.

Later, on when I asked to change rods and had my good old six-foot bamboo rod and fast reel again, I felt sorry for the beginner. While he did pretty fair with his outfit, I'll bet that next year he'll show us all up with his new outfit. He learned right there that the right tackle would make him equal to any fisherman he might run across.

Hunting And Fishing

YOU AND YOUR PLUG ROD

A fisherman looks at an opening between the lily pads and casts his weedless bait right in the center of it. He sees a delectable head sticking up out of the water, or a down log just under the surface, and lays that plug right alongside of them.

All this is done with hardly a thought. It is simply a matter of searching each particular spot as easily as you reach for something at the table. Yet back of this ease in hitting that spot are hours of long practice.

The beginner looks with awe and envy at us when he sees us drop our lure so carelessly yet so accurately. He wonders if he will ever attain such rhythm and smoothness and he may well continue wondering all of his life.

He doesn't know that most of us are still using our old rods, rods with which we have fished for years. Through many days of casting we know exactly what we can do with each lure. Our fast reels and long plug rods need just a little help from the wrist.

The days of being able to walk into a tackle shop and buying a quick running reel or a five and a half foot steel or six foot bamboo casting rod will not come back until next year at least. In the meantime the poor beginner is handicapped with poor tools.

It isn't that we are expert casters because we are so much smarter than the beginner. It is the fact that we were able to get just the right equipment with which to do good casting. Our rods and reels do the work for us.

I realized this quite fully the other day when I picked up a short steel rod and a slow running reel and tried to cast with it. My friend had to use it for me. It was all he could buy and he got it second-hand but paid a high price for it.

He was just learning to cast and until I tried his outfit, I thought he was an awful dud. Yet when I put my whippy rod and fast reel in his hands and gave him a few instructions, he was getting out 100 feet with ease and fair accuracy in a half hour.

I was just as pleased as he was, when we started fishing, for I let him use my outfit while I tried to use his. Soon he was the expert. I was the dud and I hated to take my tackle away from him but I couldn't get out 50 feet with any kind of accuracy.

I got so mad at his confounded outfit that I finally laid it down in the boat and let him fish. Then I got mad because I wasn't fishing and made up my mind that I would whip that situation and started to work on his reel and

Mel Ott Is Hard Loser But Giants Admire Him

BY AL VERMEER
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York—Mel Ott is not a graceful loser and had plenty of time to prove it when his Giants plunged from first place to fifth with a famine that saw them triumph only six times in 27 ball games.

During this stretch poor Melvin sat alone in a corner of the hotel lobby, nibbling his nails and wondering what had happened to the club which once threatened to shatter all records for quick get-aways. He couldn't sleep or eat, merely shoving his food about with an unwilling fork, and spent long hours in the clubhouse, his head in his hands, brooding at the tide which had so suddenly turned against him.

"But that is the way a manager ought to be," exclaims Giant secretary Eddie Brannick, who echoes the opinions of Horace Stoneham, club president.

"Those managers who can take a licking and then walk off the field with a cheery smile and say 'tomorrow is another day'—they are not for us," declares Brannick. "John McGraw was not like that. Nor was Bill Terry, and say what you want, Terry had some remarkable managerial talents."

"Mel Ott isn't that way, either, and we're glad of it."

Brannick travels with the club, shares Ott's joys and despair, and reveals that as time goes by Little Melvin shows more and more resemblance to the late McGraw. Eddie can remember when old John J. would roar into the clubhouse, fling his shirt to the floor and below to his men:

"I don't mind if another ball club gives you fellows a good whipping. That's what the other clubs are trying to do. But it makes me boil when you go out on that field and whip yourselves."

Old Mac could really tell them off, and you could hear a pipe cleaner crash to the floor as players silently changed clothes, trying their best to keep out of Little Napoleon's view.

Some folks suspected Ott might have mellowed when he refunded the $500 fine plastered on Bill Voiselle for that game-losing pitch in St. Louis. But Mel put them straight a few days later when he chastised first baseman Phil Weintraub in front of 21,000 home fans by abruptly yanking him out of a ball game with the Pirates.

Twice in four innings Weintraub had failed to make what seemed easy plays at the bag, preferring to let pitcher Van Mungo cover the base and risk unnecessary collision with Pittsburgh base runners. The fans booed this apparent timidity and Mungo was seen to deliver himself of some choice remarks when the players returned to the dugout.

Thus Ott was confronted with a delicate decision. Either he must save his first baseman's face by leaving him in there or he must order him off the field, humiliating Weintraub in front of all those people.

Mel Ott did precisely what John McGraw would have done. He ordered Weintraub off the field. And the Giants went on to win their fourth straight game.

Haegg, who holds so many middle distance records that statisticians flinch at the mention of his name, won the two-mile run in 9:00.6 to establish a British record but the time was not too far from the world record of 8:42.2.

Anderson did the mile in 4:08.2, compared to his 4:01.6 which stood as a universal standard until July 17 when Haegg shaved two-tenths of a second off it.

Without exerting himself, Anderson defeated Syd Wooderson, Britain's outstanding mile, by two and a half yards.

Gunder finished a half lap in front of Douglas Wilson, British army athlete, and easily wiped out the English record of 9:03.8 which Jack Lovelock set back in 1933.

The Americans got off to a slow start but finished strong in the field events to nose out the British army, 107 points to 106.

The British AAA was third with 99 points and the Royal Airforce fourth with 94.

The Yanks won only six events, four of them in the field.

WHITE SOX AND BENGALS SPLIT

Chicago Caps Winning Streak With 7 To 0 Finale Victory

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP)—The league-leading Detroit Tigers wound up a losing series with the Chicago White Sox today, splitting a doubleheader to give the Tigers only one victory in the six games.

The Sox jumped on Detroit for four straight victories and then ended the series today with the Tigers taking the opener, 6-2, and the Sox capping their winning streak with a 7-0, four-hit shutout administered by Johnny Humphries.

Al Benton was the first game's winner, scattering eight hits for his eleventh win after a shaky first inning in which the Sox scored a run. Detroit hammered Ed Lopat for 11 hits, including three doubles, and scored four runs in the sixth to sew up the victory.

Benton gave up three straight singles to start the game to hand the Sox a one-run lead, but his mates came back with two singles, a double by Jimmy Outlaw and a sacrifice to score twice. In the sixth, four hits, including Outlaw's second double, a base on balls and an error sent four more runs across. Chicago's second run came on Lopat's double, followed by singles by Wally Moses and Kerby Farrell.

The Sox had a rather wild first inning in which Zeb Eaton gave up three bases on balls and two singles, good for three runs, and a fielder's choice, and with all three putouts being made as runners attempted to steal or advance a base. He also mixed in a wild pitch to score one run, and caught Moses trying to steal third.

LeRoy Schalk, Johnny Dickshot and Floyd Baker brought the runs across, to put the Sox in front. Oris Hockett, who had a stolen base in that frame, added three more before the game was over. He doubled in the fourth and stole third and home, after driving Baker across ahead of him, and stole second in the sixth as the Sox scored their final two runs, but was out stealing third.

Eaton was charged with his second defeat of the year in the game. Manager Jimmy Dykes and Coach Mule Haas were banished by Umpire Bill Greive in the sixth inning of the opener when an argument developed over a play at second base, in which Umpire Hal Weaver called the runner safe.

As he left the field, Dykes said he would protest the game, but as the protest concerned merely a play and the umpire's judgment, rather than any rule, it was doubtful the protest would be filed. Dykes could not be reached for comment after the game.

Pitching Strength Tells For Senators

BY BUS HAM

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Pitching strength is beginning to pay for the Washington Senators as the hot American League race enters the trying "dog days" of August.

Due more to "hurling in depth" than any other single factor, Manager Ossie Bluege's men today are only one-half game behind the league-leading Detroit Tigers. The Senators were idle today, without a chance to improve their own lot. Detroit, however, had a double engagement at Chicago.

Bluege's battery boys recently faced the real task of hurling five doubleheaders in as many days, and Ossie saw his team's pennant chances bogging down.

But the Senators' six mainstays—Roger Wolff, Dutch Leonard, Marino Piretti, Mickey Haefner, John Niggeling and Alex Carrasquel—and a rookie, Walter Holbrook, proceeded to turn in what unquestionably stands as one of the finest strings of low-run performances in this or any other season.

Over that burdensome span, the Senators won nine of 10 games, with the pitchers holding their opponents to the remarkably low average of slightly more than one run per nine innings. The actual count: 12 runs in 96 innings.

The Senators first mopped up four games in two nights with Philadelphia's last-place Athletics, and the local skeptics chorused, "We might win if we could play the A's every day."

Then came Boston's Red Sox, acknowledged to be the best hitting club in the league. The Senators took five out of six from them, and only Dave Ferris, Boston's 18-game winner, beat Bluege men, 15-4.

In Washington's nine victories, the starting pitcher went the route with the sole exception of Sunday's first game, which the Senators won in 14 innings, 5-4. Even then, Starter Dutch Leonard was on the mound in the ninth but injured his knee fielding a bunt.

Only 38 players were on hand for the tournament's final round, postponed from yesterday because of rain. The other 34 qualifiers either failed to finish their third round in yesterday's soaking rain or left for home last night.

Kocsis, by taking off top honors, earned a $100 war bond as low amateur. Byrd, the defending champion and low professional, won $450 in bonds and Sellers pocketed $275 in bonds for his third place finish.

Women in the U. S. labor force in 1940 will number about 17,500,000 to 18,000,000, as compared to 17,800,000 average in 1944, according to an estimate by the Census Bureau.

MICHIGAN TITLE GOES TO KOCSIS

Detroit Amateur Shoots 11 Under Par To Cop Open Golf Crown

BY FRANK KENESSON

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 6 (AP)—Chuck Kocsis, Detroit amateur who won the national intercollegiate title nine years ago, finished with 33-35-68 today to nose out Sam Byrd, power-hitting Detroit professional, by two strokes for his second Michigan open golf championship at Cascade Hills Country club, Kocsis' winning total was 277 for 72 holes—11 under par. Byrd had a last round 69 for 279.

Gib Sellers, the "Arkansas Traveler" now farming near Springfield, Michigan, fired a one-under-par 71 on the final round to finish third with 284, three strokes ahead of fourth place Chick Ruten, Birmingham pro.

Even On Birdies

Al Watrous, Detroit professional who has won five state open crowns since 1926, was deadlocked for fifth with Jimmy Johnson, pro at Detroit Glen Oaks. Watrous finished with a last round 37-34—71 for his 288 total while Johnson had a one-over-par 73 today.

Byrd, who started today's final round a stroke back of Kocsis, pulled even with him on the first hole birdie 3 but dropped behind again as Kocsis knocked in a 10-foot putt for a birdie 3 on No. 2.

Byrd's 10-foot putt for a birdie 2 on the short third was nullified by Kocsis' birdie on the par-4 fifth hole and when Kocsis birdied the long eighth and Byrd two-putted for his birdie 4 on the ninth they both had three-under-par 33's going out.

Byrd, still a stroke behind, played every hole of the last nine in par, climbing even again in the dog-fight when Kocsis chipped past the cup on the 12th hole and missed his 10-foot putt for a par coming back.

Kocsis sewed up the victory on the 365-yard 17th, where he rammed in a 25-foot putt for a birdie 3. His easy birdie 4 on the long 18th accounted for the two-stroke margin.

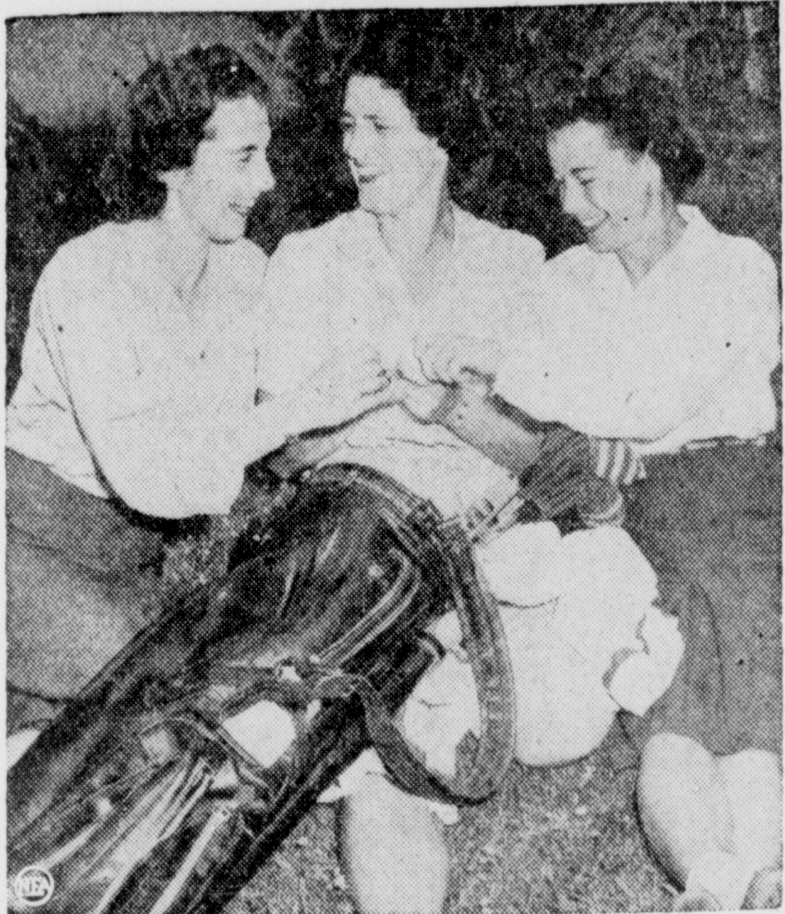

Only 38 players were on hand for the tournament's final round, postponed from yesterday because of rain. The other 34 qualifiers either failed to finish their third round in yesterday's soaking rain or left for home last night.

Kocsis, by taking off top honors, earned a $100 war bond as low amateur. Byrd, the defending champion and low professional, won $450 in bonds and Sellers pocketed $275 in bonds for his third place finish.

The Detroit Tigers found themselves only a meager halfgame ahead of the Washington Senators in the American league race after losing a doubleheader to the White Sox Sunday, while the Senators were grabbing two games from the Boston Red Sox. And the New York Yankees were only three games off the pace at the close of business Sunday, despite the fact that the Bombers dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the lowly Athletics.

In Memoriam

To the loving memory of our darling son and brother, Edward, who passed away August 5, 1941.

He passed away like morning dew.
Before the sun was high.
So brief his time, he scarcely knew
The meaning of a sigh.
He died in beauty, like a rose
Blown from its parent stem;
He died in beauty, like a pearl
Dropped from some diadem.

Sadly missed by his sorrowing parents, brothers and sisters.

In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Clarence J. Plank, who was killed in action in France on August 7, 1944.

He little thought when leaving home,
He would return no more,
That he in death so soon would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.
We do not know what pain he bore,
We did not see him die.
We only know he passed away,
And could not say goodbye.
In our hearts will always linger,
Memories so fond and true.
There is not a day, dear Clarence,
That we do not think of you.

Sulfa Drugs Made More Effective

Quebec—Sulfa drugs can be made effective against species of bacteria that ordinarily resist their action by using them in combination with certain synthetic dyes, Prof. F. S. Thatcher of McGill University here has discovered. The dyes found most effective in this way are known as methylene blue and brilliant cresyl blue. Both these dyes are themselves able to check the growth of bacteria, but when used in combination with one of the sulfa drugs the concentration of both dye and sulfa compound is much lower than when either is used alone.

Prof. Thatcher's results were obtained entirely with laboratory-grown bacteria in glass vessels. However, in reporting his researches in the new issue of Science he states that clinical studies undertaken in cooperation with Dr. J. T. MacLean at the Ste. Anne de Bellevue Military Hospital "indicate a promising therapeutic value" for a combination dye-and-sulfa treatment of at least one type of infection.

An extraordinary case of brain injury was recorded in Egypt in 1938. During the battle of the Nile a captain gave an order to his men and was struck on the head at the instant of command. He fell unconscious and remained in that state for 15 months. On being operated upon at the end of that time, he regained consciousness almost instantly and shouted the words of his "late" command.

Michigan Is No. 1 Lure For Tourists--Welsh

Michigan is the No. 1 tourist lure of the nation, attracting annually seven times as many visitors as California and five times as many as the winter crowds that go to Florida, James P. Welsh, Detroit, said in interesting talks at meetings of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs Monday.

Speaking on the topic, "This Amazing America," the Old AAA Traveler of the Michigan Automobile club told the service clubs that tourists spent $360,000,000 annually in Michigan before the war. He predicted that the post-war travel boom will exceed the expectations of everyone living in this vacation region.

Mr. Welsh described some of the unforgettable historical spots and interesting people he has seen in his travels all over the country. Among the places he mentioned were San Antonio, Texas, the Smoky Mountain region, New Mexico and Louisiana. Texas is bigger than any country in Europe, except Soviet Russia, he said in describing it as the state of great distances.

The speaker talked about the American Indians, mentioning there are 1,058 Ottawas in Michigan, 286 of whom are serving with the armed forces. Among the interesting spots in Michigan, he told of a lighthouse, built on the shore of Lake Huron in 1838 near Alpena, the government engineer in charge being Lt. Jefferson Davis, U. S. army engineer, who later became president of the Southern Confederacy.

Bring New Money
In an interview with a Press reporter, Welsh also said the lifting of gasoline restrictions will bring a flood of tourists to the Upper Peninsula, bringing much revenue to this region. He added:

"The value of the tourist dollar lies in the fact that it's brand new money into a community, money for which the community works very little except to sell that which the Lord has given it. And the tourist means important money, too, for our surveys show that the average car on the road in peacetime days carries three and one-half persons and that the average daily expenditure for each person is $6.42. That means that every visiting car attracted into a community might logically be expected to leave better than $22 a day scattered along its route. And that's money put into immediate circulation because it goes for food and shelter and car service and amusement."

Michigan residents are inveterate travelers, Welsh said, which, in his opinion, spells money for the Upper Peninsula. He explained:

"While the average American isn't going to stay at home because of an old car or thin tires, he is going to travel within reasonable limits—he's not going to land until he gets new tires and, possibly, a new car. That means he's going to play reasonably close home. We of the Automobile Club of Michigan know just what we're talking about in this postwar travel, because our 250,000 members in Michigan are a true cross-section of traveling America. In Detroit right now we have delivered to members more than 7,000 'assemblies' of marked maps, speedometer logs, accommodation guides and other informational material. Those have gone to members who are ready to hit the road the minute they get gasoline."

Infantile Paralysis Cases On Decline

Washington — Although the number of infantile paralysis cases reported to the U. S. Public Health Service here is still increasing, fewer cases have been reported for each of the last six weeks than for the corresponding period last year. This would seem to indicate that the number of cases throughout the country will not reach epidemic proportions.

A total of 963 more cases were reported last year than this year for the six weeks from June 16 to July 28. Up to June 7, more cases were reported for this year than last. There will probably continue to be an increase in the number of cases reported until September, but the increase is expected to be slight in comparison with those of last year. To date this year, 2,048 cases have been reported for the country as a whole as compared with 3,060 for the same period last year.

Marlin Williams Gets Silver Star

Pfc. Marlin J. Williams, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Roger Williams, 423 Ludington street, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action. His wife and daughter reside at 512 South Thirtieth street.

His citation reads as follows: "In the vicinity of ", Germany, on April 14, 1945, when two of his comrades were wounded and lay in full view of enemy guns, he left his place of comparative safety to crawl over open ground under a withering hail of machine-gun, sniper and bazooka fire to where the soldiers lay, and succeeded in evacuating them to a place of safety where medical aid could be given. His conspicuous heroism and personal gallantry saved the lives of the wounded men and is in keeping with the finest traditions of the U. S. infantryman."

Pfc. Williams entered the service in July, 1944, and has been overseas since December.

Ancient Greek has been claimed by philologists to be the most perfect language that ever existed in the world.

Mrs. Lena Creten, Gladstone Matron, Dies Late Monday

Gladstone—Mrs. Lena Pickard Creten, wife of Louis Creten, died at her home here on North 17th street, following a sudden heart attack at about eight o'clock on Monday evening.

Mrs. Creten was born on April 26, 1886, at Spolbeck, Belgium, and came to America 45 years ago. She was a member of the congregation of All Saints Catholic church.

Surviving are her husband, seven children, 22 grandchildren, three sisters, one brother and her step-father. The children are Mary, Paul, Margaret, Alphonse, Bertha and Isadore of Gladstone and Joseph in the U. S. Army, now serving in Alaska. The sisters are Mrs. Camiel VerHamme, Mrs. August Boden, Mrs. Walter Hanson, the brother, August Pickard, and her step-father, Paul Van Der Kerkoff, all of Gladstone.

The body was taken to the Kelley funeral home to be prepared for burial but funeral arrangements were still incomplete Monday night.

PUBLIC ENEMY KILLED

Lagos, Nigeria (AP)—A huge hippopotamus which has terrorized the Cross River area for 12 years and killed at least 50 people, has been shot. Previously, hunters had only succeeded in wounding it and each time it got away. The hippopotamus was more than 12 feet long and weighed three tons.

Briefly Told

Eagles Meet Tonight—A special meeting of Escanaba Eagles will be held tonight at 8:30 at their new hall. Plans for the first annual picnic of the Eagles Aug. 19 will be gone over.

Boat Missing—A large ivory-colored rowboat disappeared from the Escanaba bathing beach on Friday night. It is believed that a strong off-shore wind might have carried it to the Stonington peninsula, and anyone finding such a boat should notify the bathing beach. The boat, approximately 16 feet long, is the largest of the three rowboats used by life guards for patrolling the bathing area.

VFW Auxiliary—A meeting of the VFW Auxiliary will be held Thursday night at 7:30 at Grenier's hall, and all members are urged to plan to attend. A program is being prepared, and will be announced Thursday morning.

Knights of Columbus—A regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus will be held at eight o'clock tonight for the transaction of business. A program has been arranged and luncheon will be served.

Reckless Driver
Pays Court Costs

Paul Dubord, 1820 Eighth avenue north, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving yesterday in justice court and paid $8.25 court costs when Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette suspended a fine of $25.

Dubord was arrested by local police after his automobile broke a telephone pole and hit two trees on the 900 block of Sheridan road early Sunday morning. The trees and the car were damaged, but Dubord escaped injury.

In 1944 U. S. railroads did a passenger job equivalent to carrying almost one billion passengers for an average journey of 100 miles.
